

ANNUAL REPORT

STRONG. HONEST. LOYAL.

WIBI PRESIDENT'S REPORT

First, I must extend my thanks to our stockholders for their continuing support, our staff for all they do and have done to contribute to our success, and our customers without whom we would not exist. It has been an interesting year to put it mildly. Only the very young don't realize that everything needed to maintain their daily existence is costing more. Inflation hurts everyone except those who print money.

As I age, I have come to realize that the benefit of getting older is that your perspective broadens from the understanding gained by having generally witnessed economic cycles of all sorts. I also know that the capacity of the brain's storage disc seems to shrink, or, at least, the ability to quickly access what is stored there diminishes.

Even with inflation, the local economy flourished during the past year. Farmers, despite the drastic increase in input costs, did well. Mother Nature has treated us quite well this winter and it appears that most of the moisture that fell during the winter months actually went into the ground instead of running off into the creeks and streams. Let's hope she continues her good manners.

Thankfully, it is unlikely that those who run our governments will ever gain control of nature, despite all their efforts to supposedly make things easier on her down the road. When one considers how poorly they manage what they do control, the forecast would not be pretty.

The only new piece of legislation I would propose would require that those in Congress would have to eliminate their own pension system, which also seems to be the one they fully fund, and join the Social Security System, with the added contingency that actions taken during their time in office could cause their monthly benefit to be reduced.

Even with inflation, the local economy flourished during the past year. Farmers, despite the drastic increase in input costs, did well.

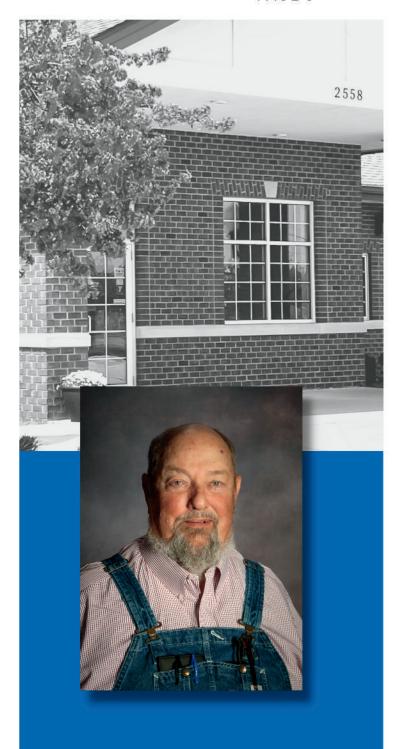

The recent failure of a few mismanaged and poorly regulated banks has created a confidence reduction in the banking system as a whole. I can assure you we do manage our risks daily to ensure that we will never fail.

Those failures have resulted in the government covering all the potential depositors' losses at those banks while claiming that it was done in such a way that will be of "no cost to the taxpayers." Please remember that any government spending is a cost to the taxpayers. Ultimately, all government funds have been and will ever be provided by those who pay taxes.

I continue to worry that those running our great nation are failing to upgrade their computers and operating systems while neglecting to add to their fast diminishing supply of weapons of war.

It is my hope that Mother Nature, the economy, and all of those with whom you deal and associate treat you well in 2023. Please let me know if I might be of help in improving your dealings with our bank or its subsidiaries.

Despite some of the current headwinds, we feel we are "hitting on all cylinders" and ready to take advantage of opportunities for growth.

Dear Shareholder:

This past year marked my 40th year in banking and I have seen and experienced many things over this period of time, but until 2022 I had not seen interest rates increase by 4.00% in less than one year. While this has presented short-term challenges, overall, we remain optimistic.

One of my first educational opportunities in banking was learning about asset-liability management. In 1984, the bank I was with had just purchased their first computer – an IBM with dual floppy drives. Some of you may actually remember those. At that time, we were coming off an all-time high in interest rates, with prime rate reaching 21.50% in December of 1980. I'm confident some of you remember that. The new computer helped us create financial models to manage interest rate risk.

Today we are still using similar models to help us manage the bank and as you can imagine, they are much more sophisticated. Every quarter we conduct rate shocks of up to 4.00% to measure the effect it would have on both our balance sheet and income statements. While these forecasting tools have proven valuable in the current rate environment, we never expected a 4.00% rate shock in the real world!

We are well-positioned to manage the banking risks that exist today. In addition to having better tools and a talented staff to use them, we are strong in all areas. This is especially true in the two most critical ones – credit quality and liquidity. Problems for banks most always start with bad loans and in the worst-case lead to a liquidity crisis like we have seen recently with several large banks. I can assure you that Midwest Bank and community banks as a whole are nothing like these banks.

Financially, 2022 was a transition year as stimulus payments had ended, and we began to feel the inflationary after effects. Our audited statements reflect consolidated net earnings of $5,353,329 compared to $5,872,113 in 2021, representing a decline of 8.83%. While year-over-year earnings per share were lower at $4.02 versus $4.40, we knew it would be a challenge replacing $1.6MM PPP loan fees received in 2021.

During the year, we once again experienced significant growth. Assets went from $638MM to $680MM, for an increase of 6.68%. Loans increased by 9.30%, going from $328MM to $358MM. Last, deposits went from $504MM to $558MM, representing growth of 10.84%. Deposits is where we expect the biggest change in 2023, as organic growth will be difficult due to the high demand for deposits and a slowing economy.

Recently we have made the election with the Federal Reserve to switch from a Bank Holding Company to a Financial Holding Company (FHC). This move formalizes our existing business model and allows for more freedom to expand our financial services platform that already includes insurance and wealth management. These, along with mortgage services and credit cards, make up our four pillars of non-interest income.

Despite some of the current headwinds, we feel we are "hitting on all cylinders" and ready to take advantage of opportunities for growth. As an FHC, this growth can take place in a number of different forms – banking, insurance, wealth management and even accounting. We look forward to seeking out synergistic relationships that can create additional revenue for the company.

Nothing is impossible with a great team and we have just that. In addition to learning about asset-liability management during the last 40 years, I have also learned to recognize when something is extra-ordinary. I have recently told our staff that they are the best I have worked with. I hope that our future success proves me right.

Please consider attending our annual meeting. This year we are going to provide a virtual option for those of you who cannot attend in person, although attending in person can definitely be more fun! We plan to put more focus on the future and sharing some of our strategic goals for the company. Your attendance would be greatly appreciated.
